

VLADYSLAV PROKOP

FRONT-END DEVELOPER

I've been developing turnkey websites for more than 4 years. I've been passionate about the website development since the high school. I consider it my calling. I'm a creative person, it helps me developing interesting and unique websites. I don't like routine, so I try to automate my work, as well as the company's work processes. For example, I created an automated e-brief and workflow system with a step-by-step project management system. Sometimes I'm a mentor and I have my own channel for the beginners. I have experience in project management and task distribution. Read more about me on my website wladislaw353.github.io
